The following parable seems to have been delivered specially to them, as part of an address when they had gathered in more than usual numbers. A certain rich man had a steward, to whom he left the entire charge of his affairs. He learned, however, from some sources, that this man was acting dishonestly by him, and scattering his goods; so he called him and let him know what he had heard, telling him, at the same time, to make out and settle all his accounts, as he could no longer hold his office. The steward, knowing that ho was guilty, was at a loss what to do. I cannot dig, said he, to himself, for I have not been accustomed to it, and I am ashamed to beg. At last he hit on a plan which he thought would serve...
